The following information is provided to ensure qualifying individuals applying with PCS for an examination are protected under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). All requests submitted through this form will be evaluated by Professional Credential Services (PCS) to determine the following:

1) The applicant has a disability as defined by the ADA, 2) There is a current need for testing accommodations, and 3) A reasonable accommodation can be provided

Note: All approved testing accommodations must maintain the psychometric nature and security of the examination. Modifications which fundamentally alter the nature or security of the exam will not be granted.

Disability Documentation Guidelines

The following guidelines describe the necessary components of acceptable evidence required to validate a disability and the current need for testing accommodations. A prior history of accommodations, without demonstration of a current need, will not necessarily warrant approval of testing modifications. To avoid unnecessary delays, ensure that all information and documentation is submitted by the application deadline and in accordance with these guidelines.

Qualified individuals with disabilities are required to request accommodations at least four weeks before an exam administration. This allows time for the request to be evaluated and processed, and for PCS to make arrangements for reasonable accommodations and/or services to be delivered on the day of the examination. Consequently, it is in the applicant's best interest to provide recent and appropriate documentation that clearly defines the extent and impact of the disability upon current levels of academic and physical functioning.

Additional Guidelines:

- The request for accommodations and appropriate supporting documentation, which is complete, must be submitted by the application deadline for the state to which you are applying as a candidate.
- Documentation should provide evidence of a substantial current limitation to physical or mental (academic) functioning.
- Clinical evaluations must be performed by a licensed or qualified professional with credentials appropriate to diagnose and treat the disability (i.e., physician, psychologist, or specialist). Information about the qualified professional's area of specialization and professional credentials, including certification and licensure, should be clearly delineated in the documentation that is provided to PCS.
- Documentation must be submitted on official letterhead from a licensed or qualified professional who has examined the applicant and diagnosed a physical or mental impairment. Depending on the disability and written evaluation, documentation may include a letter from a physician or a detailed report.
- For most disabilities, documentation that is no more than three years old is considered current.
- Disability documentation must be detailed and specific. Documentation for all disabilities should describe the extent of the disability, the criteria for the diagnosis, the diagnosis, the type and length of treatment, and the recommended accommodation. Terms such as "problems," "deficiencies," "weaknesses," "differences," and "learning disability" are not the equivalent of a diagnosed specific disability (such as ADD, Dyslexia, Multiple Sclerosis, etc.).
- PCS approves all accommodations prior to the examination and communicates the approval or denial in writing directly to the applicant. If accommodations are not available on the day of the exam, applicant may choose to test without accommodations (if possible) or not take the examination.

Disability Documentation Guidelines continued... Mental Health Disabilities:

For invisible (mental) disabilities, the following areas should be assessed:

Ability: The Weschler Adult Intelligence Scale IV (WAIS-IV), with its subtests can be included as a standard measure of overall intelligence. The WAIS-IV should only be one component of a full documentation report. Other adult intelligence scales or assessments may be deemed acceptable in lieu of the WAIS-IV. Consult a qualified professional for additional information.

Achievement: Current levels of academic functioning in relevant areas, such as reading (decoding and comprehension), mathematics, and oral/written language are relevant to determining whether or not there is a current need for accommodations. The tests submitted should be standardized and valid for use in an adolescent/adult population. Consult a qualified professional for additional information.

Processing Skills: Other tests in processing areas may warrant evaluation as indicated by the tests above. These areas include information processing, visual and auditory processing, and processing speed.

Note: These suggested tests are not meant to preclude assessment in other relevant areas, such as psychological status or vocational skills.

When is it necessary to submit this form and supporting documentation?

- If you have been previously approved for special accommodations, but have not taken an exam in the last year, please submit this form ONLY. You are not required to submit updated supporting documentation.
