TEMPORARY LICENSE INFORMATION

Temporary licenses are issued to applicants who meet the requirements for licensure with the understanding that the applicant is taking the NEXT scheduled examination. Applicants who have already received a passing score on the National Athletic Trainers Association Board of Certification (NATABOC) examination are NOT eligible for temporary licenses. If an applicant for temporary licensure does not take the next scheduled examination or fails the examination, he/she may petition the Board to issue another temporary license. However, it will be considered a second temporary license, and the applicant must take the NEXT scheduled examination. If the applicant does not take the examination or fails the examination, he/she may request a third temporary license from the Board. First and second temporary licenses are required to practice under supervision.

A third temporary license is the FINAL temporary license. Temporary licensees working under their third temporary license must practice under DIRECT SUPERVISION.

If you have already taken the NATABOC examination and failed prior to filing an application with PCS, a temporary license may be issued. However, it will be considered a SECOND temporary license even though the applicant never applied for a first temporary license. With two failures on the examination, a temporary license may be issued. However, it will be considered a THIRD and FINAL temporary license.
